King Rejects Ralston's Advice In Favor of Gen. McNaughton's Program of No Conscription

OTTAWA, Nov. 9.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said last night the voluntary system of overseas service had not broken down in providing reinforcements for the front-line troops and will be continued.

Speaking in the wake of a cabinet division which resulted in the resignation of Col. J. L. Ralston as Defence Minister last week, Mr. King said he appealed for the cooperation of Canadians in encouraging men in the home defence army to enlist for service overseas.

In his half-hour speech over a Canadian broadcasting Corporation station, noting the reason Mr. King, speaking slowly and carefully, gave the following sequence of events: the resignation of Col. Ralston and the appointment of Gen. McNaughton as Minister of National Defence, and the appointment of Gen. McNaughton as his successor.

Called for Conscription

—Col. Ralston returned from a visit to Britain last week to propose for overseas, to meet a possible shortage of infantry reinforcements in the next few months.

Resignation of Col. Ralston as defence minister resulted directly from disagreement as to whether conscription for overseas service should be used to provide reinforcements.

The voluntary system of providing reinforcements will be continued—has not broken down.

The principle of "first out" may be followed in demobilization.

Difficulty in meeting reinforcements overseas, he said, was the only reason for the proposal to be accepted.

Gen. McNaughton said the possibility of obtaining the required reinforcements by voluntary means had not been exhausted.

Gen. McNaughton said that Canadian forces, having begun as voluntary forces, would be more inclined to remain in the service if they continued in this basis as long as it was effective.

Sales in City

At $4,607,750

Giving the third last day of the Seventh Victory Loan, Edmonton received $892,250 to reach its minimum objective of $800,000, the amount of the monthly quota assigned during the Sixth Loan $1,192,750 is required.

Sales to date total $4,607,750 from 1,205 subscribers to bring the aggregate to date to 21,333 applications for $60,000.

This represents 96 per cent of the quota of the city's Calgary, with a quota of $1,192,750, has achieved 95 per cent of its quota.

The Victoria, B.C., quota, which has reached

96 per cent of its $45,300,000 objective, has received $21,333 applications for $482,000 from 125,000 subscribers.

Officials stated Thursday that in the last loan a serious situation existed in the city, and it was necessary to raise about $800,000 to go over the top. As Saturday is a holiday, the city's quota would be seriously handicapped if the need to raise such a sum were to be met by a Victory Loan.

Victory Loan headquarters, the bond booth and all banks will be open Saturday morning, and all bondholders are urged to

RCMP Recapture Escaped Prisoner

Two Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers, springing down an Edmonton street late Wednesday, overtook and captured a man who "long-sought, badly wanted Steve Burpuck," who escaped Aug. 22 last from Prince Albert penitentiary.

Burpuck, police claimed, had been away for two years, when he was captured in a short chase that sent him back in the hands of the two officers.

Protecting the captured were Col. R. H. McLean, Major G. J. Molynieux, both of Edmonton. A quick search revealed that the man had been serving a sentence on his person, an amount believed to be the proceeds of a recent robbery.

Burpuck was sentenced to the penitentiary for breaking, entering and safe-robbing a Hendon home.

After being freed from prison, he was believed to have committed a series of other offenses, taking in one robbery alone, and estimated $4,422.

Nazis Claim Fantastic Successes for New V-2

By ROBERT DOWSON

—(AP)—The Germans pulled out all propaganda stops today in describing the destruction allegedly inflicted on London by their new V-2 rocket bombs, but rigid official British circles continued to refuse comment.

The tactical News Agency said the technical development of the long-range rocket was a success.

The London Daily Mirror reported a raid on the British capital, to all-out an V-2 terror in London," while the Daily Herald bannered, "Germany V-2s are here."

The German news agency said the German claim that areas hard hit included the South London Canterbury, Croydon, Bromley, and Mitcham, south; Sutton, south-east, and Edmonton, northeast.

The official German D.N.A. Agency said that the British had been "shattered" by the new V-2 rocket bombs, but did not give any effect on the success and effect of other long-range targets.

The London morning newspaper also reported the German claim that Berlin claimed was occurring right under their own windows.

Premier Discloses:

Ralston's Advice Rejected For No Conscription Plan Advanced by McNaughton

amining the probabilities of the unknowns involved, and we have been considering particularly the methods of supplying reinforcements. We have been at the risk of increasing temporary anxiety we have taken the time needed to do all this. The wartime conditions change very rapidly. Five years' experience has taught us that nothing is more uncertain than war.

I emphasize the question of re-enforcement because no other question is more important to fighting men. The government is fully aware of the public concern regarding this.

Let me begin by placing the question in its true perspective in the picture of Canada's total war effort. In 1940 nearly 1,000,000 men were served in Canada's three armed forces. The present strength of the three services is about 1,500,000. All but 68,000 are volunteers. These figures represent a stupendous increase in raising fighting men for a nation of less than 12,000,000, particularly when we consider the man power required for production and vital civilian services.

ARMY ONLY PROBLEM

The present strength of the armed forces is only one of the three armed services. The navy and the air force have no such problem.

The navy, 85,000 men in the service, has ample manpower to meet its needs. The air force, with 190,000 men in its ranks, has passed the peak of its reinforcements. But even recent arrivals who came from now on will not be available until they are trained.

IMMEDIATE PROBLEM

Colonel Ralston's report to the government disclosed an immediate problem which had to be faced, that of the need for an immediate speeding up the flow of fully trained infantry reinforcements to the Far East. This is the only reinforcement we have available.

The question now is, how will we go about it? What steps should we take? We have some men serving overseas some of the Canadians who are fully trained in the Canadian Armed Forces Mobilization Act?

That will seem like a good idea, but it is not, of meeting the problem. It is not, however, in accord with the policy of keeping our army as lean as 100 per cent to meet manpower needs. The air force, with 190,000 men in its ranks, has passed the peak of its reinforcements. But even recent arrivals who came from now on will not be available until they are trained.

THE FUTURE OF THE ARMY

We have always believed that the best way to meet the problem of the army is to have it serve overseas.

Over 85,000 men have volunteered for general service since Jan. 1 of the present year. Most of these men are in the two, three or four years. All are recent recruits. All are young, lean, rapid and varied training.

It is against this background that we should examine the statement that we should not be sending adequate training to be sent into action.

HUGO ORGANIZATION

The Canadian Army is a huge organization. At one time or another, more than 60,000 men have served in its ranks during the war.

That is a good record, but a few of which any part lacked adequate training. On the contrary, the military authorities had the army as the best possible evidence of the efficiency of its training. Since they went into action, the Canadian Army has sent troops to receive training.

The record of Canada's Army in Italy, France, Belgium and Holland is indeed a good record, of which any part lacked adequate training.

The next record is that of the army, based upon the number of casualties. When we speak of the number of casualties, we have to make a careful review.

They find that the number of these exceptional cases is very small. The army, as a military advisor of the government is satisfied that reinforcements sent into action have been sent into action.

MASTERS ESTIMATE

The number of casualties

has to be estimated in advance.

Before D-Day, no one could possibly know how many casualties would be in northwestern Europe.

The military experts of all the forces had the best possible estimate of probable casualties.

These estimates were based upon the probable nature of the operations in France and the low rate of casualties.

The military experts of all the forces had the best possible estimate of the strength of enemy forces.

In the actual fighting, the total casualties of the army have not been as great as the number estimated and provided for in the original plan.

expected in the actual landings and higher than estimated in the early days of the war.

Lt. Herb. Pickard

With Flotilla

WITH CANADIANS IN ADRIATIC COASTAL FORCES, Nov. 9. — (CP)—A Canadian soldier circa 1918, 20 years ago knew the name of Hero Pickard of Winnipeg, an amateur golfer who showed signs of becoming one of the country's top-notchers. Pick, now 28, is a lieutenant in Canadian forces in the navy of the Mediterranean and is a senior commanding officer with the famous 500 M.T.B. Flotilla, while awaiting his return to Canada on leave. Pick was a naval officer in command when his boat was shot up while he was recovering from wounds.

He was mentioned in dispatches last summer for his part in three actions the 56th fought.

The flotilla sank about four or five German ships, captured 100 crewmen and damaged many others.

"But the most exciting action, from my standpoint, was before the Pick," he said. "I was in the Mediterranean one night when a couple of German destroyers were chased all the way from Sicily to the coast of some American torpedo boats. My boat was part of the flotilla and we got the destroyers when heading our way."

"We were about 2,000 yards from the target when the German destroyers came out and we were sitting there as plain as day."

Pick's men fired fire on us, and it was nearly black. The torpedo boat fired his torpedoes and sheered off, then fired mine. I don't think we hit them, but the fire was getting so hot I turned and found that I was caught in a trap. There were 10 destroyers, 10 dive bombers and the destroyers and the destroyers and the destroyers. I was very pleased when I got out of all that."

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—It verges on the historic to find the Army-Notre Dame classic—America's No. 1 football game—rated as a mere appetizer for a later contest. But that's the situation with Saturday's Cadet-Flash clash at Yankee Stadium regarded generally as a sort of appetizer before the Army-Navy game in Annapolis, Dec. 2.

Army has put onto the field 100,000 spectators before nearly 80,000 fans generally expected to give the green-jerseyed Irish an opportunity to repeat their 1943 victory. The first half of Notre Dame by Navy last week. The game will confirm the later Army's claim to be the genuine "meeting of the mighty."

If Army can beat the south end squad by a margin of 10 points, it will have turned out a magnificent team, indeed. Because the cadets will be faced with the task of being certain to be inspired by the tradition of the classic—a squad that will go all out to win. Notre Dame has never beaten both Navy and Army in the same year.

GRAND ADVENTURE

This contest should be a grand adventure in gridiron psychology, for who can doubt that the world of Notre Dame will this wartime, sub-par band from South Bend in its traditionally "big game"?

Against Illinois, Notre Dame, definitely defeated, was expected to remove itself from the physically at least, from the high plane of pre-war Notre Dame squads. And since the team has been so severely hampered by the loss of halfback George Terpil, the Army team, which while they are pitted against one of the strongest machines in Army history—possibly the strongest.

The Cadet-Irish classic has more tradition behind it than the Navy-Notre Dame game. The Army-Brown first meeting in 1913, soldiers at West Point in 1913; but it wasn't until 1927-14 years later—that the Military Academy and the Notre Dame football began play. It was the initial Army encounter in 1913 that first provided the incentive for the football profession.

The late Knute Rockne was captain of Notre Dame team that year, and he single-handedly forced forward passage a brand new weapon then—as the Irish achieved victory. The Army team, which had 10 West Point—an upset by a "minor" midwestern team that put the game into the record books.

Midwesters, first meeting in 1913, that proved to eastern college football that a top-flight team could play a top-flight football. In 1913, the midwesters, the forward pass to big-time coaches, and that indoctrinated the Army-Notre Dame classic.

Sees Little Chance
Of Trade Expansion
For Great Britain

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(CP)—Hugh Dalton, president of the Board of Trade, said yesterday war requirements must come first and there was little possibility of expanding trade with Britain. "There is no 'no doubt at all' that trade between Canada and the United Kingdom is one of the most important channels for expansion after the war," he said.

Viscount Bennett, former Canadian prime minister, moved a vote of thanks to the House of Commons yesterday that Canada's wealth is a "partnership family" and "if only I could convince Mr. Churchill that the Empire would be a good thing for the post-war period, I'd be a very happy man."

Marek Scored 10
Points For Texas
In 17 Seconds

By PETE CAWTHON
Reported by Tom Cawthon
M. T. B. Tech team at Fort 109 had won nine in a row, was doped to easily beat New Mexico at Albuquerque, went out relaxed.

With the score tied, 5-5, with 17 seconds to go it looked as though the team would be knocked out of a Cotton Bowl bin.

I put in Joe Marek to attempt a field goal from the 27-yard line and he did it from the sideline. He succeeded in getting a 10-5 lead.

Then the 10-5 lead was gone as New Mexico tried to score. Marek, however, ran 62 yards to a touchdown and converted to roll up 10 points in 17 seconds and give the team a 15-5 lead.

A spectator became so excited he fell out of the back of the stadium.

Reports Accurate

Polls "Vindicated"
By F.D.R. Victory

By ELMO ROPER

Mr. Roper, well known authority on public opinion surveys, conducts the "Fortune" magazine polls.—Editor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The final Fortune survey figures, based on the four-part attitude scale in which I have confidence, showed President Roosevelt the winner of Tuesday's election. We had found that he was the choice of 53.6 per cent of the citizens who are above 21 years old. That meant that if all the different component parts of our civilian society voted at about the same ratio and if there were no sampling or statistical error, his popular majority would be 53.6 per cent, and this would almost automatically give him a "comfortable" electoral college majority.

It was possible, of course, for this figure to be wrong. If the normally pro-Roosevelt voters who had voted from one part of the country had not registered or had not voted, or the women had failed to vote, the result would be to the utmost, as they used to do, this percentage would have been too low. But if the same number of many of the supporters of either candidate had been too satisfied with the right to vote, to vote, this figure could have been in serious error.

The figures must not be allowed for the soldier's vote because we were forbidden by law from polling the soldiers. Almost all of the people who had voted from the military unit thought the soldier vote went to Roosevelt. The only correct thought the soldier vote would go to Roosevelt by varying degrees.

Final Prediction: Roosevelt's final prediction of the total vote, for example, was 32 per cent for Roosevelt, 27 per cent for the soldier voter lower than that and he had estimated that the soldier vote would add 10 per cent to the total vote to the Roosevelt total.

George Gallup's American Institute of Public Opinion predicted Roosevelt at 53 per cent, and he predicted that the soldier vote would add 10 per cent to Roosevelt's total, and the final exact figure won't be known for certain states.

All the results are not in. Many of them come from rural areas which may be expected to decrease the Roosevelt majority, but many of them are counted soldier ballots, which may be expected to increase the Roosevelt total, and the final exact figure won't be known for certain states.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

CVB Reports 697 Placements

Mrs. G. F. Haggstrom, director of the Citizens' Voluntary Service (CVS), in presenting her report for the year, reported there were 697 placements during the month with three new registrations and client assisted in the Bureau's office. No. 5 took place in 22 centres throughout the city, the largest 375 volunteers, each of whom were given a certificate of achievement in the City of Edmonton. Twenty-one volunteers were used after distribution for check and work.

"We are most happy to make use of the Bureau's Block system and office facilities in the organization of community groups, the periodical distribution of ration books and the outstanding efforts of the Bureau in the education of the workers is a great satisfaction to all concerned," said Mrs. Haggstrom.

Fifteen canteen placements were made for the Salvation Army, and a number of other canteens through request from the Home Economics Department of the University of Alberta, that girls take turns running the canteen to gain experience.

Eleven canteen placements were made for the Canadian Red Cross Society, and the Bureau's volunteers were asked to answer questionnaires for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and to regard to standardizing sizes of children's garments.
